LL.M. Program

Applications for the LL.M. program at LSU are still accepted. The program provides a unique opportunity to study American Law in a bilingual environment, with professors who can bridge the difference between civil law and common law and make the law of the U.S. more approachable. The deadline for application is February 1st, 2010. Visit <http://www.law.lsu.edu/> and click on 'International Programs' or contact Ms. Jennifer Lane at Jennifer.lane@law.lsu.edu.

Also visit our LL.M. blogs, with information on the present class (<http://lsu-llm2009.blogspot.com/>) and testimonials from previous students (<http://lsu-llmalumni.blogspot.com/>).

Conference Notes

- On November 16, Professor Olivier Moréteau was invited to be the first speaker on a new Workshop Series at McGill University, on Civil Law and its Codes: a Journey Across the Americas. He presented a paper called “De Revolutionibus... The Place of the Civil Code in Louisiana and the Legal Universe.” Referring to Copernicus’ De revolutionibus orbium coelestium, he demonstrated how in Louisiana as in other civil law jurisdictions, the legal world is no longer civil-code centered. Civil codes may stop becoming peripheral if the whole legal system were re-centered on the citizen.
- On December 2, 2009, Professor Olivier Moréteau sat as a judge on a doctorate panel at Université Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne, where doctorate candidate Laurent Chassot presented a thesis on the combination of custom, western legal systems and global law in Vanuatu. On December 4 to 6, in Vienna, he participated to the works of the European Group on Tort Law.
